

Pope Forced to Backpedal in Chile

Earlier this year Pope Francis paid a visit to Chile and left a lot of outraged people. Victims of a long-standing and wide-spread sex abuse scandal by Chilean priests were waiting for him, hoping to be heard. They claimed that the local hierarchy had ignored their pleas.

At the time, the pope was no better help. The victims felt brushed off and Francis even accused them of slander when they claimed that a local bishop was ignoring them. This caused such an

James Hamilton, José Andrés Murillo and Juan Carlos Cruz were victims of Chilean priests. However, not until they went public with their case was the pope forced to apologize and discipline the bishops involved.

Is Friendship Evangelism Enough? By David W. Daniels

Should I give someone a tract and walk him or her through it to the point of praying to receive Jesus? Or should I wait until I have made close friends and “earned the right” to bring up such a sensitive subject as “faith” or “religion”? A number of articles in Christian media say tract evangelism is dead. Is “friendship evangelism” the godly alternative?

First of all, Jesus did not say to make friends before sharing the gospel. Here’s what Jesus commanded:

Mark 16:15: And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.

uproar that it threatened the Vatican's hold on this heavily Roman Catholic country.

When he commissioned an investigation, he got back a 2,300-page report. He then invited three of the most vocal victims to the Vatican for a week of testimony. In a subsequent meeting with the Chilean bishops, all 34 submitted their resignations and asked forgiveness for ignoring the pleas of the victims over the years. The story is continuing in Chile and elsewhere.

A statement by one of the victims hosted at the Vatican was revealing. Juan Carlos Cruz described an emotional personal apology by the pope. Cruz said that he also told the pope about his homosexuality and reported that the pope told him that he was "as God wants him to be," and "you have to be happy with who you are."

These scandals are central to Roman Catholicism's power system that ignores the Bible. The priest/nun celibacy requirement keeps them tied emotionally and economically to the "church." When they get old, they have no family to turn to for support. Yet eliminating marriage also creates a powder keg of emotions that Satan can use in many perverse ways.

Catholicism has been dogged by these perversities for a long time. When homosexuality came to the general attention a few decades ago, some insiders claimed that there was a significant sodomite culture among the priesthood.

Although most charges of sexual abuse by priests are labeled pedophilia, nearly all the victims turn out to be pre-pubescent males, the universally preferred homosexual partner. For the forementioned victim to admit to being homosexual is not surprising. The majority of male homosexuals experienced abuse by an older male when young.

Other evidence of the unhealthy results of Catholicism's celibacy rule is the persistent stories of misbehavior between priests and the nuns in cloistered convents. Ex-Jesuit Alberto describes his own findings in the Crusader Comic, The Force, page 30. Charles Chiniquy also witnessed similar problems when he served his "50 Years in the Church of Rome" described in his book by that name.

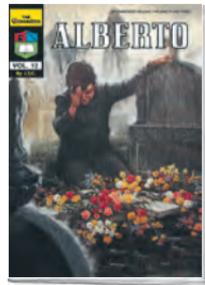

As the Lord exposes the unbiblical power structure of this counterfeit "church," we must be informed enough to guide the precious Roman Catholic person to Christ alone for salvation. The idolatry of Virgin Mary goddesses and wafer worship have no place in Christ's bride.

Beside the above-mentioned books, several tracts are available from Chick Publications exposing this prostitute "church" described in Revelation 17 and 18. A disgrace greater than the sex abuse scandal is the acceptance of Roman Catholicism as "just another denomination." The popes' propaganda machine has effectively insulated the precious Roman Catholic people against anyone telling them the truth.

It is shameful how professing Bible believers are ignoring the Great Commission. But hundreds of millions of the pope's followers are destined for a great surprise when purgatory turns out to be hell itself with no exit. God will surely hold us accountable on Judgement Day for not telling them the truth.

Friendship Evangelism...

Matthew 28:19-20: “Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen.”

The US has been encouraging friendship evangelism for a couple decades. As a result, higher percentages are not hearing the gospel. Why?

Item #1069

Look at the obvious flaws with this approach:

A. Nobody knows when he or she has gotten to be friends enough to evangelize. As a result, they don't do it.

B. Many times people won't evangelize after they become friends, because they are afraid of losing their friend, and begin instead to rationalize that it's "more loving" not to cause them distress than to save their souls from hell, get their sins forgiven and open the way to Christ as their living Saviour and God the Father as their own adoptive Father.

C. Some few who do finally talk to their friend, after holding back previously, may find their friend feels "used," just becoming friends in order to evangelize them.

The answer is to offer salvation and forgiveness to everyone we can, knowing that some will be open and many won't. But they may at least appreciate our honesty. I've had people befriend me because they wanted to make me Catholic. People feel used that way.

We also need to teach and preach a gospel that is actually in the Bible. We are saved by faith in the shed blood of God's only begotten Son, Jesus, to pay for our sins. We are not saved by works, no matter how good, religious or spiritual they look. God's holy words are what He said and what He inspired to have written. They are not up for opinion or committee vote.

Many modern Bibles have changed the Great Commission from "preach" or "teach" to "make disciples." This is a different concept. When you preach or teach the word of God, you are presenting information so the person can make a choice.

We preach and teach. God makes people disciples. These changed words made people think Jesus was commanding lifestyle evangelism in the Great Commission! As a result, people backed away from witnessing. This created the mess we're in: the Great Omission. It sounds like something Satan would do, doesn't it? You need the right gospel, and the right Bible.

I have well over 200 videos on these topics, to aid your faith and your witnessing. You are free to watch them any time at YouTube.com/c/chicktracts.

Are Bereans Out of Date?

By David W. Daniels

When I was at Fuller Seminary, I noticed that they had a low view of the Bible but a high view of preaching. It was as if when you stood behind the pulpit, a divine event took place. God was transferring to you and you were feeding the people.

That is in direct contrast to my view: a high view of the Bible and a low view of preaching. God did make prophets like Moses where He spoke directly to them, but He made a distinction with others who would only receive visions and dreams. But the New Testament says that the “spirits of the prophets are subject to the prophets.” Whoever is prophesying is judged by all in case he gets it wrong.

But when there is a high view of the Bible, it has the final say, not man.

Everyone has one Bible that all can use to judge all other words. Even a 5-year-old can rebuke someone who is preaching and gets it wrong.

Most of the preachers now are in the “Fuller mode,” with a low view of the Bible and a high view of preaching. They act as if there is a layer between the people and the truths of the Bible. The preacher “penetrates that layer to bring it to the people.” To them, the lowly people have only the English words but do not have the “true depth of the Greek and Hebrew.”

No, God kept His promise to preserve the scriptures, and He did it in one place. All they are doing by going to the Greek or Hebrew is pushing their doubts another layer back. The doubts that they had in English are still there.

Christian Colleges: Obey God or Government!

Satan’s attack on Bible believers is relentless. Above all, he wants to limit or eliminate our freedom to share the gospel. Following his success in getting the Bible out of the schools, he is using America’s legalization of sin as a prybar to remove additional freedom.

One arena is the Christian Colleges who dare to stand on the Bible against the same-sex agenda. The political concept of separation of church and state was the wedge that drove the Bible from the schools. Now the anti-discrimination laws have been hijacked to force acceptance of gender confusion.

The previous Washington administration had stipulated that any private college that received funding from the government was forbidden to “discriminate” on the basis of religion, race, color, sex, or national origin. And sex was broadly interpreted to include same-sex attraction and chosen gender identity.

This applied to hiring as well as standards of admissions for the students. Even if the college did not receive direct grants from the government, money such as Pell Grants to the students for tuition brought it under the anti-discrimination regulations.

So, standing on biblical principles in hiring and admissions meant a fatal cutoff of funding for the institution.

Fortunately, some of the severity of this penalty has been reduced under the new administration. However, this is only one of the fronts in Satan’s war on our freedoms.

Another arena is the assault on our children. As usual, California is the leader. A bill being considered in Sacramento forbids anyone with unwanted same-sex attractions from seeking paid counseling.

Tagged AB 2943, it would amend the state’s consumer protection law to make it illegal for any organization or person to offer “any practices that seek to ... change behaviors or gender expressions, or

Tract User Makes Unusual Appointment

Soul winner Ken Bolyard lives by faith and praise. He also has sown tens of thousands of Chick tracts over the years. He remembers an appointment arranged when the Holy Spirit dropped him from the sky onto a busy turnpike. Here is his story:

My name is Ken from Texas. I have been wanting to share this testimony with you for years now and seemed never to get around to it.

In the early 80's I was flying my private airplane from Northeast TX to Muskogee, OK on a business trip. I was flying alone. I have been a Christian since I was a teenager. I was praying and praising the Lord southbound over the mountains, parallel with the Indian Nation Turnpike.

While I was praising the Lord, I noticed I was losing engine power. To make a long story short, I lost an oil pump and was losing altitude very fast. I made a quick 90-degree turn and radioed ahead to Antlers, OK to tell them I had engine failure and was headed for the turnpike in case I had to set it down. I can say I was in perfect peace all the time this was happening.

When I got to the turnpike I was treetop high and barely made it over the trees when I got lined up with the Southbound lane of the turnpike. Upon making a good landing between two Southbound vehicles I still had enough power to taxi along with the traffic looking for a place to exit off. I came up over a hill to find out I was at the Antlers toll gate. I taxied into the parking area.

Here comes the GREAT part. The State Trooper that came to do an incident report asked me to get into his car so he could get information from me. After giving him my pilot's and driver's license he began filling out the report. He suddenly stopped writing and several minutes went by. He then looked at me and said, "God sent you to me." I sensed that the Holy Spirit had been working on his heart and shared the gospel with him.

After leading him to the Lord, he told me that people had been giving him Chick tracts when he would stop them and he would sit outside of the turnpike reading them. I knew what he meant because I have been getting 10's of thousands of your tracts out over the years.

Someone had sown the seed through your tracts and God sent me along to reap the harvest after being drawn by the Holy Spirit. Praise God. We became very good friends after that and he has gone on to be with the Lord now. (He died of cancer some time later.)

I have had a lot of wonderful times sharing the gospel through Chick tracts. I have worked with churches to set them up to use them and display them in their churches. I was able to get 4 churches in our community to go together and mail out your tracts to every home in our county and some surrounding counties, about 30,000 homes. "WOW" what a great way to reach everyone in your community. So much more I could share. Thank you so much for what you do. God bless!

God or Government... from p. 6 to eliminate or reduce the sexual romantic attractions or feelings toward individuals of the same sex.”

Youth or adults struggling with their gender identity would not be allowed to seek paid counseling for their concern. Any conference requiring an admission fee would be forbidden to encourage attendees to avoid homosexual behavior. The bill is so broad that a liberal judge could conceivably fine a bookstore for selling Bibles or tracts that call homosexuals to repentance.

Fortunately, Christian and conservative legal organizations are working hard to defeat the bill. Yet it illustrates the audacity of the activists driving to eliminate all opposition to same-sex behavior.

The attack on the younger children comes in the government schools. Again, California is the leader. A story from Orange County illustrates the point. When parents objected to indoctrination of their children with pro-same-sex activity, they were given a memorandum by the attorney for the Orange County Board of Education: “Parents who disagree with the instructional materials related to gender, gender identity, gender expression and sexual orientation may not excuse their children from this instruction.”

The memorandum also said: “However, parents are free to advise their children that they disagree with some or all of the information presented in the instructional program and express their views on these subjects to their children.” This, of course, is too late. The innocence of the child is already destroyed simply by introducing the ideas of sexual perversion.

Parents are increasingly limited in their options. For those who can afford to home school, the very young can be protected for a while. But biblical truth has to be taught and demonstrated very intentionally. Casual Christianity will almost guarantee that the child will eventually capitulate to the pagan culture.

Chick tracts, comics and books can be valuable tools. Real-life stories laced heavily with scripture can help give the young person a biblical anchor growing up.

Boy Scouts No Longer ‘Boy’ Scouts

Christian parents are having to work much harder to raise godly children. Now another old standby has crossed a red line. The venerable Boy Scouts of America has taken another step back from its original vision.

It started a few years ago when leadership yielded to homosexual pressure to include “gay” members. Next was openly homosexual leadership. Membership began dropping at that point. Peaking a few years ago at about 4 million, current membership is slightly half that.

When the transgender craze started, girls who claimed to be boys applied and were accepted. Now, the doors are thrown open to all girls. No longer could it be called “Boy” Scouts, so now it is officially “Scouting BSA.”

Almost from the beginning, the Mormons were one of the chief sponsors of the Boy Scouts. Current Mormon BSA membership totals more than 400,000. Mormon leadership has indicated that they plan to remove support for the Scouts and develop or expand their own programs.

Christian parents have been avoiding the Girl Scouts for some time. Lesbian leadership and support from Planned Parenthood raised concern along with admission of transgendered boys.

Along with both camps’ adoption of un-biblical same-sex radicalization, some parents were shocked by the GSA handing out the sex manual “Healthy, Happy, and Hot” and BSA requiring condoms to be available at the World Jamboree.

Fortunately, churches who wish to spon-

BUT WHICH ONE?

That's the purpose of Gospel tracts. They provide a mass-communication way of finding out who is open to hear about Jesus. The more tracts we give to people we meet, the better our chances of finding that one who is hungry.

Many thanks to all who have risen to the task and supported the upcoming outreach at the Youth Olympics in Argentina. Over 270,000 Chick tracts have been printed and shipped in nine languages to the freight forwarder who is loading them into the container that will go there. This project is at the request of Missionary Tom Gaudet, who is mending following surgery. These tracts were specifically requested by the pastors in Argentina, because they know how effective they are. This is a chance to push the gospel into many countries, as visitors take them home with them.

ISRAEL

Dispersed throughout the world, Jewish people are receiving Chick tracts first in Israel, and then on every other continent. In Israel itself, we have worked for years with a missionary who hands them out by the thousands and also is able to place them in mailboxes (it's legal there). Tens of thousands of tracts have been shipped to him and more printed there in Hebrew. He has also used tracts in Russian for new immigrants.

Elsewhere, we work with Dr. Daniel Fried of Hope of Israel Baptist Mission, supplying them with hundreds of thousands of Chick tracts in multiple languages for their worldwide outreach to God's chosen people. We obscure faces in pictures they send of Jews who come to Jesus because of the risk of persecution. In a recent email, he wrote "We had a tremendous response from Jewish people and even Israelis to the gospel as a result of the Chick tracts. . . Many Jews have gotten saved as a result of this rally and the literature you gave."

ETHIOPIA

ITALY

You've helped us supply Missionary Chris W., who works among U.S. military and Italian villages. He wrote: "I think that they are the best received tracts I have ever used and I have been on the mission field for over 10 years. We have also handed out many of the same tracts but in English to the military folks stationed here at the air base. We do thank God for your help in supplying tracts so that we can spread the gospel here in Italy. We have seen several people saved in the past few weeks and 7 people baptized."

PAPUA NEW GUINEA

The tracts have gone far and wide.” More than 70 years old, “Mama Jo” continues to teach these pastors sound doctrine and push them to obey the Great Commission. There is no retirement for her!

Are Bereans... from p. 6

They still don’t believe that they have the words of God or that we can ever have them. They believe, like Kirsopp Lake wrote, that despite the claims of people like Westcott and Hort, we don’t have the original form of the gospels and supposedly never shall.

This is very similar to the Roman Catholic system, where the real authority or “high view” is in the priest and the magisterium delivering all truth, while the people are discouraged from reading the Bible. They are told that they cannot understand it unless it is interpreted for them by a priest. This is pure priestcraft!

When the preacher says that he understands the Greek and Hebrew, he is saying that he is better than we are and we should look to him for the interpretation, just like priests who serve the Vatican. The words of God are no longer available to the common man. The vicar, “the man in the seat of Christ,” holds the authority for saying what is truth.

God says that the Bereans were “more noble” because they “searched the scriptures daily, whether those things [Paul’s words] were so” (Acts 17:11). Paul did not hold himself up because of his righteousness as a Pharisee. He recognized the “more noble” way when the Bereans searched the scriptures, instead of taking his word for it.

Until the modern Bibles came along, people in the pew followed the scripture references in the sermon, checking the interpretation of the pastor. Now, the speaker, not the scriptures, is the focus, helped along with the overhead projector containing whichever version appeals to the preacher, and his “superior insights into the Greek.” This raises the bar against any “Berean” who might object to the pastor’s interpretation.

It all comes down to whether God kept His promise (Matt. 24:35). If He didn’t, then we don’t have the words of God. But if He did, then we must determine which English version contains them.

We can’t look to the modern scholars for help. They don’t even believe they have them!

The historical record points in one direction in English: the classic English version authorized by King James. God gave us His words in English already. And He did it right the first time. He doesn’t need to do it again. We just need to learn how to read it—and obey it. Anything else leads to confusion, authored by the father of doubt. And I’ll choose faith in God’s words and doubt of all others—including myself—any day.

Vigilant Homeschoolers Win Again

California continues as the nation's leader in attempting to take over your children. Homeschoolers there succeeded in fighting down a proposed bill that would have encroached on the freedoms of parents to oversee the education of their children. Initially, the bill would have mandated annual fire inspections of homeschooled homes. Initial reaction from homeschool defense groups caused the authors of the bill to drop that section. However, it also required more invasive reporting requirements when establishing a home school.

Authors of the bill could have saved themselves some effort had they more carefully researched the history of anyone who threatens this group of diligent parents. Several years ago, federal legislators attempted similar restrictions on home schoolers. Promptly, 800,000 calls clogged the Capitol Hill phone lines. The bill failed at that point.

A hearing on the California bill, AB 2756, was similarly stormed by parents, some with children in tow. Nearly 1000 people spoke against the bill with only 2 in favor. Members of the committee immediately declared the bill dead.

This was another example where over-eager one-worlders try to use the "bad apple" excuse. A recent scandal by a couple who abused their 13 children, whom they claimed to be homeschooling, was cited by the bill's author as the need for the regulations.

No Longer 'Boy' Scouts... from p. 8

Other biblically sound alternatives have options. Trail Life for boys and American Heritage Girls for girls are both exploding in membership.

However, parents dare not let down their guard. Satan never sleeps. The culture is no longer our friend in helping raise our children. The strongest biblical world view can only be built into your kids by constant vigilance and "nurture and admonition of the Lord" by loving parents. The church or any other organization are only helpers along the way. If we turn our back for a moment, the devil's henchmen are watching.

This just proves the need for constant vigilance by Christian parents. The whole culture is now our enemy in raising our children. Homeschooling can protect innocence for a while, but biblical righteousness must be an early emphasis in the home with a clear identification of the sins of the world and their consequences.

Those caught in Satan's web must be viewed with pity rather than with harsh judgment. Children must be taught early on how to share the joy of the Lord and the peace of the gospel. Sharing a gospel tract with a friend does not require someone "of full age." And the tract is likely to be taken home and read by more of the family.

One story shared by a Chick customer involved a prettily dressed little girl. One day when her family was out and about, they saw a burly, tattooed biker. Taking a Chick tract, she approached the man: "Sir", she asked sweetly, "Are you man enough to read this?" Of course, the tract was taken. Sometimes, only a child can get away with it.

Many families have found that it is better to help their kids attack the devil rather than cower away from those who are carrying his influence. The children quickly rise to the struggle and become active warriors for the Kingdom.

Chick tracts and comics make excellent tools to teach your kids which side of the battle to be on.

Brothers and Sisters in Christ:

We never know when the opportunity will strike to hand out a gospel tract. It's important to make sure we have them ready for that moment. If it passes, we may have lost a God-opportunity.

My wife Deborah and I spent our anniversary week camping under the trees in Sequoia National Park. Of course, I love to keep my pockets stuffed with Chick tracts. I've given them to ministers, doctors, and to college students atop Moro Rock, handed them to rangers and maintenance workers we met, and given them to other random people we struck up a conversation with.

But sometimes it's the person we don't hand it to who is most interested. In one market, I gave a young lady at the register Who's It Gonna Be? as I told her "I give these every time we come up." As I walked away I noticed another young lady at the next register, leaning over and looking at the tract with interested eyes. The next day I offered the tract to a young man at the register. He showed that they had the one from the day before. I said, "But you can keep this one." He took it. Again, that other young lady was at the next register. She really leaned over, eyes wide. This time I caught it in time. I said, "Would you like one, too?" She indicated yes, and since her hands were on the one from yesterday, I gave her Limited Time Offer. I had made sure to put an assortment in my pockets before we went out of camp.

It is a wonderful feeling at the end of the day, to need to re-stock my pockets with tracts. These are precious souls that desperately need a loving Saviour to forgive their sins, heal their hearts and prepare them for heaven. And it will be a glorious day when we see the souls that got saved because we cared enough to tell them—and give them—the truth.

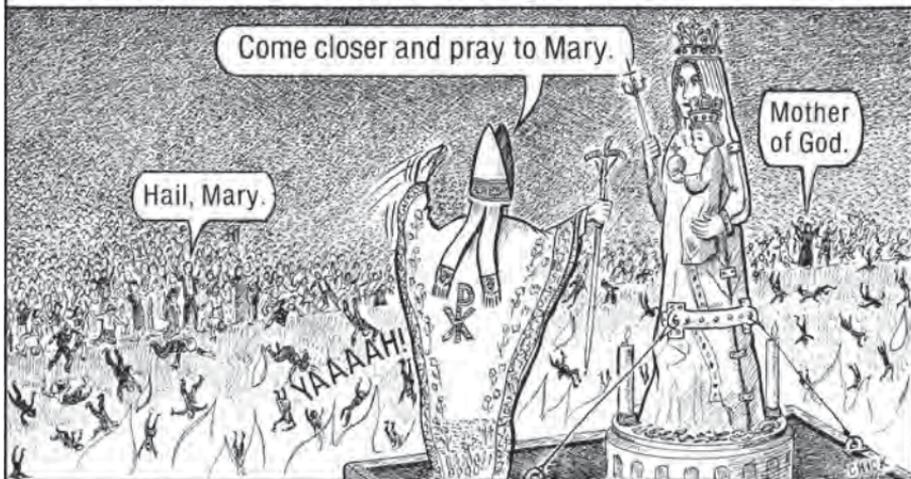

As God inspired Paul to write in Galatians 6:9, "And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."

The rewards are out of this world.
